

Lug

Balancing feminine elegance and industrial mechanics

normann

C O P E N H A G E N

Light on its feet

The steel parts of vintage bicycles have provided inspiration for the design of the Lug table's simple steel frame. Its slender, slightly curved table legs emulate the front fork of a bicycle, almost giving the impression of a table in motion. The frame is joined by a prominent brass piece which highlights the honesty of its construction and contrasts nicely with the otherwise monochrome table. The name Lug refers to this particular kind of joint – a component that is very well known within the world of cycling and which often adds an esthetic touch to older models. The larger Lug table makes for an obvious companion piece to sofas in a lounge area, while the smaller table is appropriate as a side table or bedside table.

Lug table small in black, shown with Swell sofa

Collection Overview

Lug Table
Small

Lug Table
Small

Lug Table
Large

Lug Table
Large

Lug

Lug table small in black, shown with Rope modular sofa and Grant table lamp

Product Facts

Description

Light on its feet, the Lug table is a balance of feminine elegance and industrial mechanics. The design consists of two smaller tables in steel with glass tabletops in the same shade.

Designer / Year Of Design

Simon Legald / 2020

Material

Top: Glass

Legs: Powder coated steel

Construction

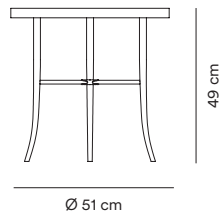

The powder coated steel frame is connected with a brass plated steel connector detail. The colored glass table top rests on the steel base and is framed by a steel edge.

Maintenance

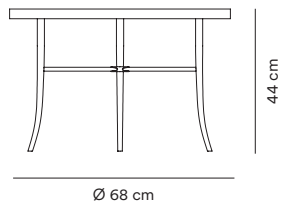

Clean with damp cloth. Please be careful with sharp objects and objects made of metal as they may cause scratches on the glass tabletop.

Measurements

Lug Table
Small

Lug Table
Large

Lug

Lug table small and large in gray

Lug

Left:
Lug table small in black,
shown with Ace sofa

Below:
Lug table small in black,
shown with Era lounge chair,
Jam bookcase and Grant table lamp

